entries for the annual award of the Prof. Dr. Marijan Hanžeković Prize

Rules for the competition in 2017

The Prof. Dr. Marijan Hanžeković Trust announces its competition for the award of the annual prize for 2017. Papers, in Croatian or in English, must be submitted by June 1, 2017 at the latest. The papers must be accompanied by an application form. All the entrants have to satisfy the terms of the competition.

Prizes

Prizes are awarded in two categories:

- one regular prize, which consists of a certificate, a medal and the sum of 50,000 kuna gross
- one student prize, which consists of a certificate and the sum of 15,000 kuna gross.

Criteria

The Trust is inviting for competition the theoretical, empirical and policy-oriented papers in the field of the public sector economics. Papers can analyse the role and functioning of the public sector at macroeconomic, sectoral and microeconomic levels, in both advanced and emerging market economies. Particularly sought are papers providing new ways of looking at things, new assessments, judgements and knowledge.

The qualities looked for in submissions are analytical rigour and creativity, as well as originality and technical proficiency.

Only original and unpublished works can be considered.

In the judging for the regular prize, the age of the entrants will be taken into consideration, younger contestants receiving extra points.

The competition is public, and the papers must be submitted under a codename.

Results

The Trust will inform the prize-winners and the public of the results of the competition by September 30, 2017. The award of the prizes will take place in the first half of December.
